Slovenski dan na 26. tržaškem filmskem festivalu (16.-22. januar)

Slovenski dan je bil v sredo, 21. januarja, napovedal pa ga je že torkov film Živeti kamen (2014, Jurij Gruden). Najprej je bila v tekmovalnem programu premiera prvenca Drevo (2014, Sonja Prosenc), ki je festivalsko pot začel julija v Karlovi Vary, potoval od Nizozemske, Nemčije, tja do Indije. Sledil je sonorični performans Pavana za Antigono Badjurove nagrjenke 2014, Hanne Preuss, v gledališču Miela. In za zaključek dokumentarni film Kaj pa Mojca (2014, Urša Menart), ki prek raziskovanja vloge žensk v slovenskem filmu in v filmskih klasikah išče spremembe položaja žensk v družbi.

V programu žanrskih presenečenj je bila prikazana še koprodukcija, posnetna na lokacijah soške fronte, Gozdovi so še vedno zeleni (2014, Marko Nabrešnik, at/si), v tekmovalnem programu pa Barbari (2014, Ivan Ikić, sr/si) in Kosec (2014, Zvonimir Jurić, hr/si). Za tekmovalni program je bilo izbranih devet filmov – in kar pri treh je zapisana Slovenija!

V sklopu festivala je že peto leto potekala koproducijska tržnica When East Meets West, na kateri se producenti iz Italije in JV Evrope vsako leto srečajo z ustvarjalci iz tretje regije: prvič je bila to Španija, potem Francija, skandinavske države, nemško govoreče države, Benelux. Tokrat so bile na vrsti angleško govoreče države: Velika Britanija, Irska, ZDA in Ka-

Slovenian Day at the 26th Trieste Film Festival (16-22 January)

Slovenian Day took place on Wednesday, 21 January, but had been announced already on Tuesday with the screening of the film Living Stone (2014, Jurij Gruden). The premiere of the debut The Tree (2014, Sonja Prosenc), which had begun its tour of the festivals in July in Karlovy Vary and then journeyed from the Netherlands, Germany, and all the way to India, took place in the competition programme. Afterwards the sonorous performance Pavane for Antigone by the 2014 Badjura Award winner Hanna Preuss was staged at the Miela theatre. In conclusion the documentary film What about Mojca (2014, Urša Menart) explored the role of women in the Slovenian film and in the film classics in order to shed light on the changing position of women in the society.

In the programme featuring a collection of genre surprises the co-production The Woods Are Still Green (2014, Marko Nabrešnik, at/si), filmed on the locations of the Isonzo Front, was also screened; while the competition programme included two co-production: Barbarians (2014, Ivan Ikić, sr/si) and The Reaper (2014, Zvonimir Jurić, hr/si). Nine films had been selected for the competition programme, and Slovenia took part in as many as three of them!

In the context of the festival, the co-production market When East Meets West took place for the fifth year in a row. Here the producers from Italy and South-East Europe meet the filmmakers from a third region every year: first Spain, then France, the Scandinavian countries, the German-speaking countries, and Benelux. This time it was the English-speaking countries' turn: Great Britain, Ireland, United States and Canada. 22 projects were selected out of 285 applicants, among them also the Slovenian feature film project Good Day for Work (Martin Turk; debut Feed Me With Your Words, 2012); the script development for this project has been supported by the Slovenian Film Centre.

nada. Med 285 prijavljenimi so izbrali 22 projektov, med njimi tudi slovenskega – za celovečerni film Dobr dan za delo (Martin Turk, prvenec Nahrani me z besedami, 2012), katerega razvoj scenarija je podprt Slovenski filmski center.

IN MEMORIAM

Annamaria Percavassi, festival director

On 2 January 2016 we bid farewell to the smiling, energetic and witty film enthusiast, a great friend of the Slovenian as well as former Yugoslav and Eastern European film in general. In the 1960s she was among the initiators of the La Cappella Underground centre. Later she was also one of the founders of the event initially named the Alpe Adria Festival, which has developed into the Trieste FF, the first and still the most important film event in Trieste. This festival finally allowed her city to assume the role of an important window into the world. Percavassi was a permanent guest of the Festival of Slovenian Film in Portorož. It was she and the whole circle of La Cappella Underground associates who had the ability to raise the iron curtain in the most critical years, even before the fall of the Berlin Wall. They understood that many interesting developments which the West should be aware of were underway in the East, and that it was appropriate for the city by the border to take the responsibility for presenting these developments.

IN MEMORIAM

Annamaria Percavassi, direktorica festivala

2. januarja 2016 se je od nas poslovila nasmejana, energična, tudi hudomušna filmska navdušenka, velika prijateljica slovenskega, prav tako nekdanjega jugoslovanskega in sploh vzhodnoevropskega filma. V 1960-ih je že bila med pobudniki Cappelle Underground, kasneje pa prireditve, ki se je na začetku imenovala Alpe Adria Festival in nato postala Tržaški filmski festival, prva in še danes najpomembnejša filmska prireditvev Trstu, ki je naposled omogočila njenemu mestu, da si je prisvojil vlogo pomembnega okna v svet. Annamaria je bila stalna gostja Festivala slovenskega filma v Portorožu. Ravno njej in celotnemu krogu sodelancev Cappelle Underground gre priznanje, da so v ključnih letih, še pred padcem berlinskega zidu, znali dvigniti železno zaveso. Razumeli so, da se na vzhodu dogaja marsikaj zanimivega, o čemer mora vedeti tudi zahod, in da je prav, če odgovornost prevzame mesto ob meji.

Slovesna projekcija filma Krizno obdobje (1981, Franci Slak)

Po 30 letih, ko smo imeli v Sloveniji le 35-milimetrsko kopijo z nemškimi podnapisi, smo v nedeljo, 17. marca, predstavili digitalizirano in restavrirano filmsko kopijo Slakovega prvenca.

Del slovesnosti je bil pogovor z ustvarjalci te filmske mojstrovine, toplo sprejete tudi mednarodno, saj je bila uvrščena v sekcijo Forum Berlinala 1982.

Digitalizacijo je z udeležbo Slovenskega filmskega centra financiral Slovenski filmski arhiv pri Arhivu R Slovenije.

Slovenski film na 11. mednarodnem filmskem festivalu Kino Otok – Isola Cinema (3.-7. junij)

Tudi svetovno vse bolj prepoznaven festival, katerega značilnost sta program teže dostopnih filmov oddaljenih držav in gostovanje svetovno znanih filmařev, je obeležil 20-letnico Slovenskega filmskega centra. Glavni dogodek četrtka, 4. junija, je bila projekcija restavriranega in digitaliziranega celovečerca Krizno obdobje.

Mednarodno, predvsem mlajše, občinstvo je tako spoznalo Francija Slaka, edinega slovenskega režisera, ki je bil 3-krat uvrščen na Berlinale – po Kriznem obdobju še s celovečercema Eva (program Panorama, 1984) in Hudodelci (tekmovalni program, 1988).

Solemn screening of the film The Time of Crisis (1981, Franci Slak)

After thirty years of Slovenia only possessing a 35-millimetre copy with German subtitles, on Sunday, 17 March, a digitised and restored film copy of Slak's first film was presented.

The solemn event included a discussion with the makers of this film masterpiece, which had also received a warm international welcome (it qualified for the 1982 Berlinale Forum).

The digitalisation was financed by the Slovenian Film Archive with the participation of the Slovenian Film Centre.

Slovenian film at the 11th international film festival Kino Otok – Isola Cinema (3–7 June)

The festival in Izola (si), increasingly recognised worldwide and featuring a characteristic programme of the less-accessible films from remote countries as well as guest appearances of world-famous filmmakers, celebrated the 20th anniversary of the Slovenian Film Centre. On Thursday, 4 June, the main event was the screening of the restored and digitised feature The Time of Crisis.

The international and especially younger audience thus had the opportunity to meet Franci Slak, the only Slovenian director to qualify for the Berlinale as many as three times – after The Time of Crisis also with his features Eva (Panorama programme, 1984) and The Felons (competition programme, 1988).

Focus on Slovenian shorts at the 23rd short film festival Vila do Conde (4-12 June)

One of the most important meeting points for the short filmmakers of all genres selected four Slovenian live-action shorts for the European Panorama programme. These films had already had their premieres at three of the most important film festivals: Atorsion (Stefan Arsenijević, the Golden Bear Award, Berlin 2003; nominated for the Academy Award; it was shown again at this year's Berlinale at the celebration of the 10th anniversary of the Golden Bear Award for short films); Heart Is a Piece of Meat (Jan Cvitkovič, Venice 2004); Child in Time (Maja Weiss, Berlin 2005); and Every Day Is Not the Same (Martin Turk, Cannes 2008, the Quinzaine des Réalisateurs programme).

The selected films were accompanied by the animated films Chicory 'n' Coffee (2008, Dušan Kastelic), winner of thirteen international awards and guest of almost all short and animated film festivals; and Boles (2013, Špela Čadež), which has received almost fifty international acknowledgements and is the first Slovenian animated film to qualify among the five nominees for the pan-European Award Cartoon d'Or 2014.

Slovenski kratki film v fokusu 23. festivala kratkih filmov Vila do Conde (4.-12. junij)

Festival, eden najpomembnejših srečanj za ustvarjalce kratkih filmov vseh žanrov, je v program Evropska panorama uvrstil štiri slovenske kratke igrane filme, ki so svetovne premiere doživeli na treh najpomembnejših filmskih festivalih: Atoržija (Stefan Arsenijević, Berlin 2003 – dobitnik zlatega medveda, nominiran za oskarja; ravno na letošnjem Berlinalu so ga ponovno prikazali, ker so obeležili 10-letnico zlatih medvedov za kratke filme), Srce je kos mesa (Jan Cvitkovič, Benetke 2004); Child in Time (Maja Weiss, Berlin 2005); Vsak dan ni vsakdan (Martin Turk, Cannes 2008, Quinzaine des Réalisateurs).

Izbor sta dopolnila animirana filma Čikorija an' kafe (2008, Dušan Kastelic), dobitnik 13 mednarodnih nagrad, gost skoraj vseh festivalov kratkega in animiranega filma, ter Boles (2013, Špela Čadež), ki je prejel blizu 50 mednarodnih priznanj in bil prvi slovenski animirani film, uvrščen med 5 nominirancev za pan-evropsko nagrado Cartoon d'Or 2014.

Muzejska ploščad, Ljubljana Filmski dan (19. junij)

Osrednji dogodek prvega filmskega dne je bila otvoritev fotografiske razstave Podoba mesta, podoba filma, podoba v srcu. Sprehod po filmskih lokacijah slovenske prestolnice s podobami, ki so za vedno zaznamovale filmsko pokrajino, je predstavil predvsem slovenske filmske klasične, kot so Vesna (1953, František Čap), Ne čakaj na maj (1957, František Čap), Ples v dežju (1961, Boštjan Hladnik), in nekaj utrinkov iz filmov Matjaža Klopčiča, ki je svoj pečat pustil v vseh obdobjih slovenskega filma, npr. Na papirnatih avionih (1967), Cvetje v jeseni (1973), Ljubljana je ljubljena (2005).

Del spremljevalnega programa so bile tudi filmske delavnice (animacija, maska, kostumografija ...) za najmlajše, saj želi prireditev prernati v tradicionalno druženje ustvarjalcev in gledalcev slovenskega filma.

Slovenski dan na 21. sarajevskem filmskem festivalu (12.-20. avgust)

Slovenski dan, 18. avgust, je odprla manjšinska koprodukcija Ti mene nosiš (2015, Ivona Juka, hr/si/sr/me), zaznamovali pa sta ga svetovni premieri dokumentarca Dom (2015, Metod Pevec) v tekmovalnem programu in mladinskega filma Utrip ljubezni (2015, Boris Petković) v programu Teen Arena. Večer se je zaključil s slovensko obarvanim Cinelink sprejemom.

Na festivalu so sodelovali tudi trije mladi

Museum Square, Ljubljana Film Day (19 June)

The opening of the photography exhibition Image of the City, Image of Film, Image in the Heart was the central event of the 1st Film Day. An overview of the film locations of the Slovenian capital with the images that have forever marked the film landscape presented especially the Slovenian film classics, for example the films Vesna (1953, František Čap); Don't Whisper (1957, František Čap); and Dance in the Rain (1961, Boštjan Hladnik); as well as a few scenes from the films by Matjaž Klopčič, who has left his mark on all the periods of the Slovenian film, e.g. On Wings of Paper (1967), Blossoms in Autumn (1973), and Ljubljana the Beloved (2005).

Film workshops (animation, makeup, costume design, etc.) for children represented an important part of the 1st Film Day, as it is one of the ambitions of this event to grow into a traditional meeting of filmmakers and viewers of the Slovenian film.

Slovenian Day at the 21st Sarajevo Film Festival (12-20 August)

The Slovenian Day on 18 August was opened by the co-production feature You Carry Me (2015, Ivona Juka, hr/si/sr/me); while the main events were the world premieres of the documentary Home (2015, Metod Pevec) in the competition programme and youth film The Beat of Love (2015, Boris Petković) in the Teen Arena programme. The evening concluded with the Cinelink reception, characterised by the Slovenian participation.

Three young Slovenian filmmakers, selected for the Talent Campus 2015, took part in the Festival as well: producer Barbara Daljavec, film critic Ana Šturm and director of photography Lev Predan Kowarski.

The history of the participation of Slovenian films at the Sarajevo FF has been extensive, diverse and full of surprises. Films by the director Damjan Kozole are the most regular guests of this festival until now, either with world premieres (Stereotype, 1997; Slovenian Girl, 2009) or with screenings after successful beginnings elsewhere (Spare Parts after the premiere in Berlin, 2003, Jury Award; Labour Equals Freedom after the premiere in Locarno, 2005, Heart of Sarajevo for Best Actor). Short Circuits (Janez Lapajne, 2007) and debuts We've Never Been to Venice (Blaž Kutin, 2008) and A Trip (Nejc Gazvoda, 2011) had their world premieres in Sarajevo as well. Maja Weiss has been presented in Sarajevo with the largest number of film formats: in 1999 she appeared with her short film Adrian (special award by the jury of critics) and documentary The Road of Brotherhood and Unity; in 2002, after the premiere in Berlin, with her first feature Guardian of the Frotier; and in 2011 and 2012 with the documentaries Where Has the Working Class Gone? and Boy, Intimate of Death 2 in the competition programme.

Sarajevo has also welcomed Slovenian short films with open arms: Good Luck Nedim (Marko Šantić, 2006, winner of the competition section of short films and recipient of the UIP, which also implies a direct nomination for the EFA); Hole (Marko Šantić, 2007, special acknowledgement); and I Know (Jan Cvitkovič, 2008, special award).

Minority co-productions are also regularly presented here. The first one after the attainment of Slovenian independence was No Man's Land (Danis Tanović, 2001, Heart of Sarajevo Award for Best Feature Film), winner of the Academy Award for Best Foreign Language Film in 2002. As many as two Slovenian co-productions took part in the competition programme of feature films in 2015: Our Everyday Life (Ines Tanović, ba/hr/si, wp 19 August); and The High Sun (Dalibor Matanić, sr/hr/si, wp in Cannes).

ustvarjalci iz Slovenije, izbrani za Talent Campus 2015: producentka Barbara Daljavec, filmska kritičarka Ana Šturm in direktor fotografije Lev Predan Kowarski.

Zgodovina sodelovanja slovenskih filmov na Sarajevskem filmskem festivalu je dolga, pesta in polna presenečenj. Doslej najbolj redni gostje so bili filmi režisera Damjana Kozoleta, bodisi s svetovno premiero (Stereotip, 1997; Slovenka, 2009) bodisi po uspešnih začetkih drugje (Rezervni deli, po premieri v Berlinu, 2003, nagrada žirije; Delo osvobaja po premieri v Locarnu, 2005, nagrada za najboljšo moško vlogo). Svetovno premiero so v Sarajevu imeli Kratki stiki (Janez Lapajne, 2007) ter prvanca Nikoli nisva šla v Benetke (Blaž Kutin, 2008) in Izlet (Nejc Gazvoda, 2011). Z največ filmskimi formati se je Sarajevu predstavila Maja Weiss: l. 1999 s kratkim Adrian (posebna nagrada žirije kritikov) in z dokumentarnim Cesta bratstva in enotnosti, l. 2002 po premieri v Berlinu z igranim prvencem Varuh meje, l. 2011 in 2012 pa z dokumentarcema Kam je izginil delavski razred in Fant, pobratim smrti 2 v tekmovalnem programu.

Sarajevo lepo sprejema tudi slovenske kratke filme: Srečno pot, Nedim (Marko Šantić, 2006, zmaga v tekmovalni sekcijski kratkih filmov in nagrada UIP, torej tudi neposredna nominacija za nagrado EFA), Luknja (Marko Šantić, 2007, posebno priznanje), Vem (Jan Cvitkovič, 2008, posebna nagrada).

Prav tako se redno predstavljajo manjšinske koprodukcije – prva po slovenski osamosvojitvi je bila Nikogaršnje ozemlje (Danis Tanović, l. 2001, najboljši film festivala), ki je leta 2002 prejela oskarja za najboljši tujezični film. Leta 2015 sta bili na sporednu kar dve koprodukciji v tekmovalnem programu celovečernih filmov: Naš vsakdan (Ines Tanović, ba/si/hr, svetovna premiera 19. 8.) in Zenit (Dalibor Matanić, sr/hr/si, premiera v Cannesu).

Retrospektiva na 1. FEKK – Festivalu kratkega filma v Ljubljani (24.–28. avgust)

Festival, katerega cilj je kratko formo v javnem diskurzu enakovredno postaviti ob bok celovečerni, se je praznovanju Slovenskega filmskega centra pridružil z retrospektivo slovenskih kratkih filmov zadnji 20 let. Prvi del je bil prikazan v sklopu slovesne otvoritve v ponedeljek, 24. avgusta, drugi del dan kasneje. Ključ za izbor predvajanih filmov je bila njihova uspešnost na mednarodnih festivalih.

V prvem desetletju so bili v ospredju kratki igrami Vrtoglaví ptíč (1997, Sašo Podgoršek), Adrian, Balkanska ruleta (Zdravko Barišić, Cannes 1998), Kratka himna domovini (1999, Boris Palčič), Hop, Skip & Jump (Srdjan Vuletić, najboljši kratki film v Panorami Berlinala 2000), Steklarški blues (2002, Peter Bratz), Srce je kos mesa, Child in time, Vem (Locarno 2008), Vsak dan ni vsakdan, Every Breath You Take (Igor Šterk, Benetke 2008), To je zemlja, brat moj (Jan Cvitkovič, Benetke 2009). Prvi animirani film z dolgim seznamom festivalskih gostovanj je Križišče (1998, Franci Slak, Miloš Radosavljević), razcvet ani-

Retrospective at the 1st FEKK – Ljubljana Short Film Festival (24–28 August)

The festival, whose goal is to place the short film form side by side with features in the public discourse, joined the celebration of the anniversary of the Slovenian Film Centre by organising a retrospective of Slovenian shorts made in the last 20 years. The first part was screened in the context of the solemn opening on Monday, 24 August; and the second part was presented a day later. The films to be screened were selected on the basis of their international festival success.

The following films from the first decade were screened: Vertigo Bird (1997, Sašo Podgoršek); Adrian; The Balkan Roulette (Zdravko Barišić, Cannes 1998); A Short Anthem for my Country (1999, Boris Palčič); Hop, Skip & Jump (Srdjan Vuletić, best short in the Panorama section of the Berlinale 2000); Glazier Blues (2002, Peter Bratz); Heart Is a Piece of Meat; Child in Time; I Know (Locarno 2008), Every Day Is Not the Same; Every Breath You Take (Igor Šterk, Venice 2008); and This Is Earth, My Brother (Jan Cvitkovič, Venice 2009). The first animated film boasting a long list of festival appearances was Crossroads (1998, Franci Slak & Miloš Ra-dosavljevič); while the flourishing of animation in the second decade was already announced by The Beezes: Cherries (2003, Grega Mastnak). Meanwhile, the absolute prime examples of high-quality Slovenian animation to date are Chicory 'n' Coffee and Boles.

Special emphasis on the Slovenian film creativity at Let's CEE (1–11 October)

The opening film of the Vienna festival of films from the Central and Eastern Europe, encompassing everything from Turkey to the Caucasus, was The High Sun. Two other co-productions were presented as well: You Carry Me and We Will Be the World Champions (2015, Darko Bajić, sr/si/hr).

The selection of “purely” Slovenian films included the music documentary Time to Improvise (2014, Tina Lesničar & Janez Stucin) and features Šiška Deluxe (2015, Jan Cvitkovič), Inferno (2014, Vinko Möderndorfer) and Chefurs Raus! (2013, Goran Vojnović). All directors also attended the festival personally.

Mario Was Watching The Sea With Love (2014, Svetlana Dramlić) and Bright Black (2014, Rene Maurin) were presented in the short film programme.

The emphasis on Slovenian artists also included the invitation that the festival team extended to the founding members of the band Laibach, proposing that they organise the workshop Victory Under the Sun: Fiction and Reality. The workshop was accompanied by the screening of documentaries, focusing on the Laibach phenomenon: Predictions of Fire (1996, Michael Benson) and Divided States of America (2006, Sašo Podgoršek).

macije v drugem desetletju pa napovedo že Bizgeci: Češnje (2003, Grega Mastnak). Absolutna zastavonoši kakovostne slovenske animacije sta Čikorija an' kafe in Boles.

Izpostavljena slovenska ustvarjalnost na Let's CEE (1.–11. oktober)

Otvoritveni film dunajskega festivala filmov iz srednje in vzhodne Evrope, ki sega vse do Turčije in Kavkaza, je bil Zenit. Predstavili so še dve koprodukciji: Ti mene nosiš in Postali bomo prvaki sveta (2015, Darko Bajić, sr/si/hr).

Od »čisto« slovenskih filmov so bili na ogled glasbeni dokumentarec Čas za improvizacijo (2014, Tina Lesničar, Janez Stucin) terigrani filmi Šiška Deluxe (2015, Jan Cvitkovič), Inferno (2014, Vinko Möderndorfer) in Čefurji raus! (2013, Goran Vojnović). Vsi režiserji so se na festivalu tudi predstavili.

V programu kratkih filmov sta bila na ogled Mario je gledal morje z zaljubljenimi očmi (2014, Svetlana Dramlić) in Svetlo črna (2014, Rene Maurin).

V poudarek na slovenske ustvarjalce spada tudi vabilo festivalske ekipe ustanovnim članoma glasbene skupine Laibach, naj imata delavnico Zmaga pod soncem: fikcija in realnost. Spremljala jo je projekcija dokumentarcev, ki se ukvarjata s fenomenom Laibach: Prerokbe ognja (1996, Michel Benson) in Razdružene države Amerike (2006, Sašo Podgoršek).

Praznovanje slovenskega filma na filmskem festivalu v Cottbusu (3.-8. november)

Že 25 let je festival v Cottbusu, v bližini Berlina, najpomembnejše zbirališče filmov vzhodne in srednje Evrope. Tokrat je poseben pogled namenil slovenskemu filmu.

V tekmovalni program 12 celovečernih filmov so bili uvrščeni kar trije »naši«: Šiška Deluxe (istočasno uspešno predvajan v Sloveniji), Družinski film (2015, Olmo Omerzu, sveži tokijski nagrjenec) in Zenit (canski nagrjenec). V programu Fokus so predstavili koprodukcijski prvenec Naš vsakdan.

Obletnico Slovenskega filmskega centra in s tem slovenske kinematografije se je obeležilo še s projekcijami filmov 9:06 (2009, Igor Šterk), Oča (2010, Vlado Škafar), Karpopotnik (2013, Matjaž Ivanišin) ter z mednarodno premiero dokumentarca Hiške (2014, Darko Sinko, Matjaž Ivanišin). Ob članu žirije Igorju Šterku in gostu tekmovalnega programa Janu Cvitkoviču sta se festivala udeležila tudi Vlado Škafar in Matjaž Ivanišin.

Praznovanje 20-letnice Slovenskega filmskega centra v Cottbusu je bilo takorekoč nujno, saj festival spreminja našo kinematografijo že od začetka slovenskega »novega vala« konec 1990-ih: Ekspres, ekpres (Igor Šterk, 1997) in Outsider (Andrej Košak, 1997), Vleru (Janez Burger, 1999, najboljši film, najboljši igralec); Kruh in mleko (Jan Cvitkovič, 2001, posebna nagra-

Celebration of Slovenian films at the Cottbus Film Festival (3–8 November)

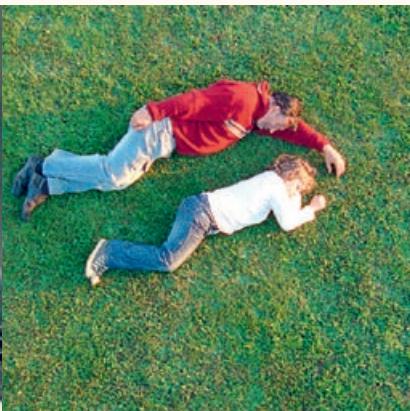

For as long as 25 years the Cottbus festival, near Berlin, has been the most important meeting point of Eastern and Central European films. This time it focused especially on the Slovenian film.

As many as three Slovenian films qualified for the competition programme of twelve features: Šiška Deluxe (at the same time screened successfully in Slovenia); Family Film (2015, Olmo Omerzu, awarded in Tokio); and The High Sun (awarded in Cannes). The co-production debut Our Everyday Life was presented in the Focus programme.

The anniversary of the Slovenian Film Centre and thus the Slovenian cinematography was also celebrated with the screenings of the films 9:06 (2009, Igor Šterk); Dad (2010, Vlado Škafar); Karpotrotter (2013, Matjaž Ivanišin); and the international premiere of the documentary Houses (2014, Darko Sinko & Matjaž Ivanišin). Apart from jury member Igor Šterk and guest of the competition programme Jan Cvitkovič, the festival was also attended by Vlado Škafar and Matjaž Ivanišin.

The celebration of the 20th anniversary of the Slovenian Film Centre in Cottbus was a necessity, so to say, as this festival has followed the Slovenian cinematography already since the very beginning of the Slovenian "New Wave" in the end of the 1990s. Thus the following films have been screened here: Express, express (Igor Šterk, 1997); Outsider (Andrej Košak, 1997); Idle Running (Janez Burger, 1999, Best Film, Best Actor); Bread and Milk (Jan Cvitkovič, 2001, Special Jury Award); Heart Is A Piece of Meat (2004, Special Jury Award); The Cloud Catcher (Miha Knific, 2005); Gravehopping (Jan Cvitkovič, 2005, Best Film); Teah (Hana A. W. Slak, 2007); Estrellita (Metod Pevec, 2007); Archeo (Jan Cvitkovič, 2011); Piran, Pirano (Goran Vojnović, 2011); Chefurs Raus! (2013, Best Actor); and A Trip (2013).

Such regular participation is the merit of the year-long selector, now also the director of this festival, Bernd Buder.

Slovenian film in the centre of the film festival in Arras (6–15 November)

Three films were shown in the context of "Focus on Slovenia": Silent Sonata (2010, Janez Burger); The Tree and The Beat of Love (French premiere).

Apart from the film programme, the Arras Days, dedicated to the new film projects of the authors who had already appeared in the festival programme with their previous film, were also organised. This time the commission, consisting of three members, also selected History of Love by Sonja Prosenc from among ten projects.

The competition programme of the Arras festival (halfway between Paris and Brussels) focuses exclusively on European films. Apart from it another programme explores new names, and the third one focuses on the East. In the recent years the following were presented here: Short Circuits (2007); A Trip (2011, special jury award); and Dual (Nejc Gazvoda, 2013).

da žirije), Srce je kos mesa (2004, posebna nagrada), Lovec oblakov (Miha Knific, 2005), Odgrobodogroba (Jan Cvitkovič, 2005, najboljši film), Tea (Hana A. W. Slak, 2007), Estrellita – Pesem za domov (Metod Pevec, 2007), Archeo (Jan Cvitkovič, 2011), Piran, Pirano (Goran Vojnović, 2011), Čefurji raus! (2013, najboljši igralec), Izlet (2013).

Veliko zaslug za to ima dolgoletni selektor, zdaj tudi direktor festivala Bernd Buder.

Slovenski film v središču filmskega festivala v Arrasu (6.–15. november)

V slovenskem fokusu so bili prikazani trije filmi: Circus Fantasticus (2010, Janez Burger), Drevo in Utrip ljubezni (francoska premiera).

Ob filmskem programu potekajo tudi Arras Days, posvečeni novim filmskim projektom avtorjev, ki so prejšnji film že imeli na programu festivala. Zgodovina ljubezni Sonje Prosenc je bila med letošnjimi desetimi projekti, ki jih je izbrala 3-članska komisija.

V tekmovalnem programu festivala v Arrasu, na pol poti med Parizom in Brusljem, predvajajo izključno evropske filme, ob njem je še program, ki prinaša nova imena in program Pogled z vzhoda. V zadnjih letih so bili predstavljeni: Kratki stiki (2007), Izlet (posebna nagrada žirije, 2011), Dvojina (Nejc Gazvoda, 2013).

Dnevi slovenskega filma v Beogradu (23.-26. november)

Dneve je odprl prvenec Nahrani me z besedami, na sporedu pa sta bila še dva: Panika (2013, Barbara Zemljič) z lepim kinematografskim obiskom v Sloveniji in Psi brez časja (2015, Matej Nahtigal), kritički hit nacionalnega festivala v Portorožu. Slovensko retrospektivo je zastopal Umetni raj (1990, Karpo Godina).

Na sporedu so bili tudi širje dokumentarni filmi: Banditenkinder – slovenskemu narodu ukradeni otroci (2014, Maja Weiss), Kaj pa Mojca, Dom in Karpopotnik.

Slovenski kratki film sta predstavljala Ljubezen na strehi sveta (2015, Jan Cvitkovič) in Šampanjski twist (2014, Harry Rag).

Srbsko filmsko občinstvo je bilo povabljeno tudi na spremljajoče dogodke: razstavo Ukradeni otroci (Po-krajinski muzej Celje) v avli Jugoslovanske kinoteke in dve okrogli mizi, eno na temo Slovenski film in otrok v vojni, drugo na Slovenski film in ženski liki.

Slovenski filmi se sicer stalni gost različnih srbskih festivalov, redko pa se jih predvaja v rednem kinematografskem sporedu. Vsakoletni festival slovenskega filma v Srbiji naj bi postal most med festivali in kinematografi. Prvi je potekal marca 2012, stalnima organizatorjem, Slovenskemu filmskemu centru in Veleposlanstvu RS v Beogradu, pa sta se tokrat pridružila Slovenska kinoteka in Društvo Sava (združenje Slovenscev v Beogradu).

Days of Slovenian film in Belgrade (23–26 November)

The event was opened by the debut Feed Me With Your Words, followed by two other contemporary features (also first films): Panic (2013, Barbara Zemljič), boasting considerable box-office ratings in Slovenia; and Case: Osterberg (2015, Matej Nahtigal), a hit among the critics at the national film festival in Portorož. Artificial Paradise (1990, Karpo Godina) appeared in the Slovenian retrospective.

Four documentary films were shown as well: Banditenkinder – Stolen Slovenian Children (2014, Maja Weiss), What about Mojca, Home, and Karrotter.

Slovenian short films were represented by Love on the Roof of the World (2015, Jan Cvitkovič); and Champagne Twist (2014, Harry Rag).

The Serbian film audience was also invited to attend the accompanying events: the Stolen Children exhibition (the Celje Regional Museum) in the lobby of the Yugoslav Cinematheque; and two round tables: one on the topic of Slovenian film and children during wartime, and the other about Slovenian film and female characters.

Slovenian films may be permanent guests of various Serbian festivals, but they are rarely shown in the regular cinematographic programme. The annual festival of Slovenian film in Serbia is to become a bridge between the festivals and cinemas. The first one took place in March 2012, but this time the usual organisers – the Slovenian Film Centre and Embassy of the Republic of Slovenia in Belgrade – were joined by the Slovenian Cinematheque and the Sava Society (association of Slovensians in Belgrade).

New Slovenian film in Berlin

(2 & 3 December)

Nine films by young Slovenian filmmakers were shown at the two-day Neues Slowenisches Kino festival in the Babylon Cinema in Berlin. On the first day the following films were presented: the animated film Boles and two features debuts: The Tree and Class Enemy (2013, Rok Biček). On the second day the New Slovenian Cinema festival presented the feature debut Seduce Me (2013, Marko Šantić); the documentary A Fight For (2014, Siniša Gačić); the short Shoes from Trieste (2014, Gregor Božič); the documentary-experimental Karpotrotter; the short The Springtime Sleep (2014, Dominik Mencej); and in the evening the feature debut A Night Too Young (2012, Olmo Omerzu), which started its journey at Berlinale in 2012.

The New Slovenian Cinema festival in Berlin was organised by the Slovenian Film Centre in cooperation with the Office of the Government of the Republic of Slovenia for Slovenians Abroad, the Embassy of the Republic of Slovenia in Berlin, and the Babylon Cinema.

The retrospective of Slovenian film, which took place precisely in the Babylon Cinema in Berlin fourteen years ago, was one of the fondest memories at the 20th anniversary of the Slovenian Film Centre. The film selector at that time was the current director of the film festival in Cottbus and the selector of the Forum section at the Berlinale Bernd Buder, who then discovered the new Slovenian film from the end of the 1990s and has remained a constant follower of the Slovenian film to this day.

Since the new, young generation of Slovenian directors was presented as many as fourteen years later, we can only wish that the film gatherings focusing of Slovenian films would become a (more) regular event on the Babylon Cinema's schedule.

Novi slovenski film v Berlinu

(2. in 3. decembra)

Na dvodnevnom festivalu Neues Slowenisches Kino v berlinskem kinu Babylon se je zvrstilo 9 filmov mladih slovenskih avtorjev. Prvi dan so bili na ogled zmagovalci preštevilnih filmskih festivalov, animirani film Boles, ter dva celovečerna prvenca: Drevo in Razredni sovražnik (2013, Rok Biček). Drugi dan je NSK v Babylonu predstavil igrani prvenec Zapelji me (2013, Marko Šantić), dokumentarni Boj za (2014, Siniša Gačić), kratki Šuojni iz Trsta (2014, Gregor Božič), dokumentarno-eksperimentalni Karpopotnik, kratki film Prespana pomlad (2014, Dominik Mencej) in pred nočjo celovečerni prvenec Mlada noč (2012, Olmo Omerzu), ki je svojo pot začel ravno na Berlinalu 2012.

Berlinski festival NSK je Slovenski filmski center organiziral v sodelovanju z Uradom Vlade RS za Slovence v zamejstvu in po svetu, Velegoslanistvom RS v Berlinu in s Kinom Babylon.

Eden od najlepših spominov ob 20-letnici Slovenskega filmskega centra je retrospektiva slovenskega filma, ki je pred štirinajstimi leti potekala ravno v berlinskem kinu Babylon. Selektor filmov je bil aktualni direktor filmskega festivala v Cottbusu in selektor sekcije Forum na Berlinalu, Bernd Buder, ki je takrat odkril novi slovenski film s konca 1990-ih in mu do danes ostal zvesti spremljevalec.

Ker se je po 14 letih predstavila nova, sveža generacija slovenskih režiserjev, si lahko le želimo, da bi filmska srečanja s slovenskim filmom postala (bolj) reden dogodek na urniku kina Babylon.

Teden sodobnega slovenskega filma na Reki (3.-12. december)

Reški Art-kino je gostil slovenske filme po izboru selektorjev, ki so vključili tako igrane kot dokumentarne filme zadnjih let.

Svečana otvoritev je pripadla filmu Šiška Deluxe, ki je imel s tem tudi hrvaško premiero. Na sporednu so bili še igrani: Razredni sovražnik (po uvrstitvi na Benetke 2013 redno distribuiran v Avstriji, Švici, Italiji in Franciji, na Hrvaškem pa predstavljen samo na festivalih), Srečen za umret (2013, Matevž Luzar, z že nekaj projekcijami v Zagrebu), Oča ter dokumentarni: Karpopotnik, Hiške (hrvaška premiera) in Boj za. Teden sodobnega slovenskega filma je sklenila hrvaška premiera filma Utrip ljubezni.

Slovenska kinoteka, Ljubljana

Slovesna projekcija filma Sedmina (1969, Matjaž Klopčič)

V torek, 15. decembra, je bila kinotečna dvorana premajhna za vse, ki so želeli prisostvovati slovesni premieri restavrirane in digitalizirane Sedmine in tako obeležiti tudi spomin na 70-letnico zmage nad fašizmom, saj se zgodbu filma dogaja med 2. svetovno vojno, v okupirani Ljubljani.

Svečanosti so se udeležili tako slovenski igralci iz filma kot tudi legende jugoslovanskega filma Milena Dravič, Rade Šerbedžija in Snežana Nikšić.

Week of contemporary Slovenian film in Rijeka (3-12 December)

The Rijeka Art Cinema presented Slovenian films chosen by the selectors, who have opted for fiction as well as documentary films, made in the recent years.

The solemn opening belonged to the film Šiška Deluxe, which thus also had its Croatian premiere. The programme also included Class Enemy (after its qualification for the Venice 2013 screened in the regular distribution in Austria, Switzerland, Italy and France, while only presented at festivals in Croatia); Good to Go (2013, Matevž Luzar, after several screenings in Zagreb); and Dad; as well as documentaries: Karpotrotter; Houses (Croatian premiere), and A Fight For. The week of contemporary Slovenian film concluded with the Croatian premiere of the film The Beat of Love.

Slovenian Cinematheque, Ljubljana

Solemn screening of the film Funeral Feast (1969, Matjaž Klopčič)

On Tuesday, 15 December, the Slovenian Cinematheque theatre was too small for everyone who wanted to witness the solemn premiere of the restored and digitised Funeral Feast, thus also celebrating the 70th anniversary of the victory over fascism, as the film story takes place during World War II in the occupied Ljubljana.

The festivities were attended by the Slovenian actors who appear in the film as well as the legends of the Yugoslav film Milena Dravič, Rade Šerbedžija and Snežana Nikšić.

The 2nd Short Film Night (21 December)

Winter solstice is the perfect moment to organise a marathon of the various short film genres – an event which had already established itself in more than fifty countries all around the world, while Slovenia adopted it in 2014 at the initiative of the Slovenian Film Centre.

The celebration of the 20th anniversary concluded with the expansion of this marathon outside of the classic film institutions and media (Cinematheque, Art Cinema Network, RTV Slovenija), as this was the first collaboration with the SCCA-Ljubljana, while some films were also shown through the Vimeo channel of the Slovenian Film Centre.

2. noč kratkih filmov (21. decembra)

Zimski solsticij je pravi trenutek za maraton različnih filmskih žanrov kratkega formata, za dogodek, ki se je udomačil v že več kot 50 državah sveta, Slovenija pa ga je vzela za svojega leta 2014 na pobudo Slovenskega filmskega centra.

Sklepno dejanje 20. obletnice je bila širitev maratona zunaj klasičnih filmskih institucij in medijev (Kinoteka, Art kino mreža, RTV Slovenija), saj je prvič sodeloval tudi Zavod za sodobno umetnost SCCA-Ljubljana, nekatere filme pa si je bilo moč ogledati prek Vimeo kanala Slovenskega filmskega centra.
